

Utah State University

DigitalCommons@USU

USU Student Folklore Fieldwork

Student Folklore Fieldwork

11-23-2013

Pick Your Plate

Alana Miller
millatimea@gmail.com

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.usu.edu/student_folklore_all

Recommended Citation

Miller, Alana, "Pick Your Plate" (2013). USU Student Folklore Fieldwork. Paper 427.
https://digitalcommons.usu.edu/student_folklore_all/427

This G8: Objects with/of Customary Use is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Folklore Fieldwork at DigitalCommons@USU. It has been accepted for inclusion in USU Student Folklore Fieldwork by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@USU. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@usu.edu.

Seth Manesse
Cedar City, Utah
November 23, 2018

Title: Pick Your Plate

Genre: Material Culture

Informant: Seth is a student at Utah State University studying computer science. He is 21 years old and grew up in Spanish Fork, Utah. He is the second of three sons. He served a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Wisconsin. He enjoys music, reading Calvin and Hobbes, and being out in nature.

Context: I went down to Cedar City with Seth to have Thanksgiving with his family. In his kitchen there are blocks in which multiple sets of dishes were displayed. We sat in his kitchen and discussed what the plates were used for. He said that for Thanksgiving dinner and for birthday breakfasts, each member of the family, as well as guests, get to choose what plate that they would like to eat off of. The plates stand on display for the remainder of the year.

Text:

[See attached images of a selection of plates from the Manesse plate collection]

Texture: Seth and his mom talked about this tradition with enthusiasm, reminiscing about specific holidays. There was also discussion about what plates people usually chose and why. Seth told me that he liked to choose the biggest one so that he could fit the most amount of food on it. I asked Seth's mom about one of the dish sets and she told me that she had made them, so she held this set more precious than the others. She said that this set used to have a bowl that matched that she had made, but that her youngest son had broken it.

Alana Miller
Utah State University
ENGL 2210
Dr. Lynne S. McNeill
Fall 2018